To the Editors of the Boston Liberator No.67

:Adams, Jefferson Co., N.Y.: Says he has been converted from the beliefs of the American Colonization Society to those of W. L. Garrison. Realizes that the Society lacks the funds to send any substantial number of slaves to Liberia. Says that in 1830, five hundred slaves were driven through Washington during a three day celebration of the triumph of liberty in France. Hopes that "an O'Connell will yet come forth and plead, on the floor of Congress, ... for the abolition of slavery, at least, in the District of Columbia ..." Predicts a slave insurrection, which can only be avoided by immediate emancipation.

«60 Broadway, Albany, N. Y.» There is little Anti-Slavery sentiment here. "New Organization seems to have crept in ... they have a male and female society." Last year they cast a hundred votes, this year twenty-five. "Many Liberty party men forgot when the day of election came around." Thinks that if W. Phillips should lecture here, it would do much good. Refers to the sitting of the Legislature. "The Whigs promise to make some effort towards restoring to the colored people their political rights." The writer has sold several of F. Douglass's books. Asks about a Mr. Wellington, and refers to his alleged "good reason for not offering Miss Miles a situation in his sc[illegible]."

To "Dear Lizzy & Anne" [Mme Auguste Laugel & Anne Green Chapman]

[Bedford] "A great battle has just been fought... 100,000 men engaged on each side. 8000 killed on our side & double the number on the side of the rebels. We are left in possession of the field, but the Enemy is being heavily reinforced, as also are we." The writer came to New York with Warren (Weston) and his family and to Bedford with Henry (G.Chapman). "Arrived in season for a party of mingled Bedfordites & N.Yorkers." Tells about the bright sayings of little Henry Chapman. "Fremont spoke in Boston last week, & said it [abolition] must be done immediately." There is no difficulty here about getting men or means for carrying on t[illegible]ar. The writer judges, from what she has heard, that "Wend[illegible] (Phillips) has had an escape for seeming to discourage enlistment; But he can no other for he judges by the feelings of individuals, & not by the necessity of the situation. I see that we are fighting the slave power: & I cannot help morally speaking, encouraging enlistment." Enlarges on this idea. The writer mentions as signs of the times in her own experience the $5000 in bills crowded into her handbag, "Henry to carry up to Bedford to pay off troop's bounty with," and seeing the diamonds he had bought as an investment, to be sent to Europe in payments because of the unfavorable exchange. "I observe that England has neither broken the Blockade nor acknowledged the Rebel independence..." The writer criticizes Victor [illegible]s "«L'Idylle» Rue Plumet." To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman No.54

«Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y.» The writer thanks his mother for letters sent with money and clothing. Thinks he can be at home by the 16th if he can get enough money for the boat trip. They will not be paid here till the 25th of September. All are trying to transfer to the places they came from; the captain of the company, having asked the writer if he wished to return to Newport, said he would do the best he could for them. The writer has been looking around the city; tells about the fishes in the Aquarium and the animals at Central Park.

To Robert Purvis

‹Brooklyn, N. Y.› The writer prepares the addressee for disappointment and exhorts him to summon up all his philosophy and love for "the cause," then describes a service at the church of Dr. ‹D. C.› Lansing at which the writer spoke before 400 and which was all "peace & solemnity." Mentions an admirable letter from Mr. James G. Birney read at the occasion by Mr. Joshua Leavitt. Mr. ‹Henry E.?› Benson is preparing letters for the writer's Emancipation Societies in Great Britain. Fears that he will have to defer his intended visit to Philadelphia, on account of urgent demands on his time.

.Brooklyn, N. Y.. The writer reminds the addressee that the quarterly rent of the Anti-Slavery Rooms will fall due this month, and requests him to leave the money in the office in season, "the collector being prompt to a day" in calling for it. Specifies amount and gives further instructions. The writer is still very feeble and "reduced to a skeleton," he is anxious to return to the office, but is not strong enough to sit up the whole of the day.

Vol.9
No.11

«Cato, Cayuga Co., N.Y.» Is at an Anti-Slavery convention. "To discuss the character of political candidates seems the great object of Myron Holley, Gerrit Smith, Wm. L. Chaplin & others, but the great body of the Abolitionists are sound. The State Society is defunct ..." Lists the conventions at which the Third Party advocates failed to convert the membership to their way of thinking. Wants G. W. B. to get delegates to go to the New York convention in May. "There is to be a desperate struggle for political power in that meeting ..." Wants to form an A-S society in western New York State free of the control of Myron Holley, W. Goodell, etc. H. C. W. has been lecturing on Non[illegible]istance. Has just heard that a convention is to be held [illegible]bany to nominate A-S candidates for President and Vice-President.

Jun 26 To Karl Gerhardt, 1853-1904

«Elmira, N.Y.» The kindness shown Gerhardt by "Mr. and Mrs. Jesse" prove they are true Grants. Hopes he will make a bust of the child that will satisfy the mother; it ought then to satisfy the father, and will satisfy the rest of the world. He cannot help making a noble statue of the General, even though he has had only occasional glimpses.

Included: sketch of a jester and two men; legend: "Bret Harte and Mark Twain."

Harte, Bret, 1836-19[illegible]nd Mark Twain collaborated in 1877 on a play "Ah Sin," wh[illegible]had a brief run.

Jul 18 To Karl Gerhardt, 1853-<1904

«Elmira» Scolds him for frittering away a busy man's time with his flighty notions. Gerhardt had asked Clemens to send him a letter, or write in his behalf. After the letters were done, his own answer was published by the Associated Press. Gerhardt also blundered in his dealings with Mrs. Grant. Even if Congress, following her suggestion, decides to order a statue of Grant, Gerhardt has no assurance that the award will go to him.

To Mrs. Nicholson

«Honeoye, Ontario, N.Y.» A letter from the addressee to Lewis Tappan has been forwarded to the writer, so that he might answer her inquiries about American abolitionists. In explaining the divisions among these the writer refers to the parallel case of the Protestant Reformation. Alludes also to a proposal by Luther to observe Thursday as a sabbath. The American anti-slavery movement found American Christians already divided. Explains the power of slaveholders in America, the need of agitating among the people, and the rôle of the church as educator of the popular conscience. The British know little of the sacrifices to which American abolitionists are called. The opposition [illegible]nti-slavery because of its alleged hostility to "divine [illegible]itutions" turns som abolitionists against these institutions. The writer differs in many

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

[Leicester, N.Y.] Requests, in the name of Mrs. Paulina Wright of Utica, some French work for the fair at Syracuse or for one to held later at Utica. Mrs. Wright would also like suggestions relative to fairs. The writer expresses dissatisfaction "with the movement at the N[ew] E[ngland] Convention touching agencies. Does it not in effect annul the American Society? Does it not look like arrogance on the part of Boston -" Elaborates this theme. Emphasizes the effectiveness of work concentrated on small sections in contrast to the more sensational procedure in conventions, as the writer discovered by her own experience in Central New York. Confidentially the writer complains of John A. [illegible]lins, who "needs someone as a balance wheel." Commends Jo[illegible] C. Hathaway and asks if his services cannot be obtained.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

«New Hartford, N.Y.» The writer must either desist from labor or cease to live. Reports that the conventions were mostly well attended. George Bradburn "felt quite grouty unless all creation turned out to hear him." Relates the incident at Syracuse. The three days' convention was large and interesting. A property meeting was held a day after the anti-slavery convention was adjourned. Abby Kelley was there. "She is intolerant beyond degree." Miss Kelley brought C.L.Remond and Frederick Douglass into a frenzied state against the writer's course. Describes their furious tirades after the writer had made a brief address. Remond "accused me of a breach of confidence, charged me with trea[illegible] and deceit... and publicly renounced all antislavery fe[illegible]hip with me." Douglass sustained Remond in his charges, and declared that if the writer continued in the field, he, Douglass, would resign his agency.

The writer defended himself at the meeting, explaining the attitude of the Board, which had a "broad, liberal, and catholic spirit," and he "endeavored to apologize for Douglass and Remond." If their continuing their agencies depended on the writer's resignation, the society would be deprived of their services. "With scarcely an exception, their course was condemned." If the writer had been in good health, the little flare-up would not have occurred. Before reaching Syracuse, the writer had decided that duty to his health and to the cause "required cessation from labor." Explains that his "eye had been fixed upon universal man," and that he considers slavery an effect of the soc[illegible]ystem . If the Board thinks it advisable, the writer wil[illegible]d in his resignation at once.

"Gerrit Smiths Mansion, Peterboro, N.Y." Describes a convention at the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica, N.Y. The meeting was disturbed as "Beardsley & Co. had burst in the doors and commenced their deafening and devilish yells." The meeting was adjourned to G. Smith's house. A New York State Anti-Slavery society was organized with William Jay as president. Gerrit Smith made an address. The Beardsley gang wrecked the offices of the Oneida Standard & Democrat.

«Peterboro, N. Y.» The writer has just returned to his home after an absence of six months, after laboring incessantly for four weeks in the western part of New York state and suffering for two weeks from an illness which induced delirium. Reports on the situation in the counties of New York: "Onondaga has gone against a 3d party. Madison can be made to do the same, but help is needed & is not to be had." Speculates about New York (county). The writer mentions a plot concocted by his friends "with Gerrit Smith at their head" to keep him from going back to Massachusetts. Gerrit Smith is prostrated from over-exertion. "He is doomed to pain the rest of his life." Refers to the prosp[illegible]ve division of New York state into Eastern and Western sc[illegible]es. To William Lloyd Garrison No.7

.Poughkeepsie, (N.Y.). Refers to a letter recently sent to W.L.G. Says that a man named William Gale "hath been waiting for his paper" (the Liberator?) He also wants the Abolitionist. Names other subscribers to the Abolitionist. Colored people were persuaded by the whites to interfere with his running a school for colored children. Claims that white men tried to get negroes to induce him to go to Africa. Claims that the colored children were kept out of the Lancaster school wrongfully. Has argued with the local postmaster about postage on the Liberator and other publications. Tells of a conversation with Lab[illegible] Clark about emigration to Africa.

To Kate «Field» No.631

«Quogue, L.I.» The writer tells about a letter he sent to Miss Field, but which was not forwarded. In the letter was enclosed a criticism of Miss Field's singing by Donn Piatt. Thinks the letter was stolen. Discusses his future plans. His book will come out on Oct.1. The editor of the London Academy is in New York trying to establish an American edition. Mentions the controversy over Whitelaw Reid. Says that Reid never favored "Prohibition."
